San Juan Island's Friday Harbor House stands atop a bluff overlooking Friday Harbor's Marina and San Juan Channel with Orcas Island in the distance. As Washington State Ferries arrive and depart along with other boating traffic from dawn well into night, the view is spectacular.

A short walk from downtown Friday Harbor with its shops, restaurants, and other amenities, this 23-room inn with its accompanying Bluff Restaurant, Bar, and Terrace is an ideal choice for visitors to San Juan Island.

If you arrive early in the day, it is possible to drop your luggage at Friday Harbor House, then explore the downtown. You can stop for a light breakfast at places like the Market Chef next to the Serendipity used bookstore on A Street.

If this is your first visit to the island, stop at the Chamber of Commerce office on Spring Street. Here you can pick up a map of the town and get directions from the staff.

Plan dinner at Friday Harbor House where Chef-Innkeeper Kyle Nicholson and his staff turn out seasonally available local seafood, meats, and produce. Chef Kyle came to Friday Harbor House a year and one-half ago with a passionate love of fresh local produce, seafood, wild mushrooms, berries, kelp, and seaweed. The wild ingredients come from his foraging efforts before he starts the day in the restaurant's efficient kitchen.

His menus change daily, adapting to the seasonally available produce from nearby Waldron Island, farm fresh eggs locally grown, locally harvested shellfish, lingcod, salmon, and halibut. Most of these fish come from local Lummi tribal commercial fishermen. Meats come from local sources as well.

Offering a five-course dinner with accompanying wines, Chef Kyle's special touch includes his foraged ingredients, which bring a special treat to meals. One example is his halibut entrée, which is covered with sea foam then topped with crisp Nori and ringed by a fresh nettle sauce that's intriguing and very pleasant. All five Chef Choice offerings are paired with wines that match perfectly with each dish.

After dining, retire to your contemporary villa with its gas fireplace, mini-fridge, and high-speed internet. A soak in your two-person jetted tub before bedtime will lull you to sleep. You'll wake to a self-served breakfast featuring homemade granola, frittatas, bagels, breads, and San Juan Roaster coffee.

All of this is enhanced by the spectacular view from the dining area overlooking the harbor. That's beautifully delicious.
